While it is admitted that the policies and actions of the ruling clique which controls the army that leads Japan now in close tie-up with the Berlin-Rome Axis have very great nuisance values in this war and they cannot be regarded with any degree of indifference, yet there is an inclination in well-informed circles to look upon this menace from the war machine of the country of the rising sun with very little actual fear, though for some time now the man-in-the-street throughout Canada has been worried and aroused by the alarming and sensational headlines on these dangers in the in the Orient.

It is held that Japan's war machine depends upon that nation's position as a world industrial and military power and that this has been greatly exaggerated, particularly by the totalitarian rulers in that nation, with the statement that this mental trait is common in any totalitarian atmosphere where there is a rigid control and dissemination tion of propaganda or information by the Government. It has produced two mental conditions, one being a very poor memory of the past and the other being a very poor knowledge of the psychology of the their democratic opponents.

Japan as a world industrial power, is in a very bad position. She has no vital natural resources, and anyone who knows anything about such matters will not hesitate to state that no nation has ever achieved industrial prominence in the world without large resources within its own home territory. She has no iron of sufficient quantities, no coal deposits worth mentioning, and no other raw materials which are essential for a well equipped war machine. She has cheap labour. Therefore, Japan's position in this respect is desperate and serious because, if she is to develop in the manner that her propaganda demands, she must do something which no

This Christmas, war, with all it means, is closer to us than it has ever been in our history. Yet we must celebrate it much as we always have. For the children who are not responsible for, or realize the state of the world it will be, or should be much the same as always. For the grown-up it should bring a realization of how much we shall have to give up if we don't win this war

Laurier Home Becomes National Historic Site

Inside and out, the home of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at St. Lin, Que., has been restored as closely as possible to the condition in which it stood on the day 100 years ago when the great Canadian statesman was born within its humble walls. Decorated and furnished in the best possible taste with authentic furniture and materials belonging to the period and typical of French Canadian handcraft, the house is a memorial to French Canada of a century ago as well as to its great leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Dedicated as a National Historic Shrine in the presence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other national figures, the Laurier house contains many treasures of French-Canadian art and handcraft. Old furniture of the period was taken there from several parts of the province; textiles from Isle-aux-Coudres, Charlevoix County; other articles, made about the time Sir Wilfrid was born, from the Isle of Orleans. The interior walls, covered with hand-made linen woven in Quebec, make an admirable background for the furnishings and pictures. Among the many typical items are a grandfather clock with wooden movement, cast iron stove with two decks, large loom for weaving, two spool beds, a "table bascule" with reversible top and brightly colored handmade rugs and representative paintings by Arthur Lismer. The exterior of the house has been renovated and the building has been moved back into the centre of the property which has been levelled and beautified. A large boulder bearing a bronze tablet serves as a monument to Sir Wilfrid.

that electricity speeds
into volume production*

As the War Effort gathered momentum a tremendous expansion of the Explosive and Allied Chemical Industry in Canada became imperative. Part of this expansion is the Alberta Nitrogen plant served by this Company.

To most effectively achieve capacity production Electricity was harnessed to the job. The requirements were so great that the Cascades Development became an essential War-time necessity.

WEDDINGS

Robinson-Anderson

Southminster church, Lethbridge made the setting for a quiet but pretty wedding on Saturday, December 8, at 2.30 p.m., when Ruth, youngest daughter of Mrs. C. Anderson and the late Mr. Anderson, became the bride of Roy Robinson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson of Lethbridge. Rev. Pritchard of Lethbridge performed the ceremony.

The bride entered the Church on the arm of her brother Mr. A. C. Anderson of Lethbridge, to the strains of the Wedding March. She made a charming picture in a floor-length gown of white sheer over taffeta, trimmed with beaded embroidery at the neckline and waist, Peter Pan collar and full bishop sleeves and a fingertip veil caught with a spray of rosebuds. She carried a bouquet of roses. Miss Gladys Anderson, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a floor length gown of pink sheer over taffeta with beaded neckline and bishop sleeves, with a spray of white 'mums in her hair. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white spray 'mums, roses, and heather. Mr. Ralph Robinson, brother of the groom, supported the groom.

The bride's mother wore a frock of Winston blue crepe with a corsage of pink roses and the groom's mother chose a gown of navy crepe, with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

A reception, attended by immediate relatives, at the Marquis hotel, followed the ceremony.

The happy couple left for Calgary by train. The bride's going-away ensemble was an olive green dress with matching top-coat trimmed in red fox and tan accessories. The young couple will make their home in High River where the groom is a member of the high school staff.

The bride is a popular member of Champion's younger set, having taught in Carmangay for the past two years, while the groom has been very active in athletics in Southern Alberta.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

—“V”

The school for the last few weeks has been a scene of much work, turmoil and bustle. The paper staff worked at top speed all week, and Friday afternoon the first edition of the C.H.S. Commentator was distributed among the students. It is indeed a splendid edition and the grades nine and twelve should be congratulated on the good work done.

Thursday afternoon the Junior I.O.D.E., most of the members of which are high school students, motored out to the home of Mrs. G. Dow, where a joint meeting was held with the senior chapter.

The Christmas party was held Friday night in the Community hall basement. The evening fun was started with a sing-song. Various quizzes and games were played throughout the evening. After dancing such dances as the Lambeth walk, Kokie-Okie, and a prize waltz, a delightful lunch of sandwiches, cake and ice cream was served.

A good time was had by all.

TO THE WOMEN OF CANADA

Here is One Big War Job which You Alone Can Do

“Ceiling Prices” Must Be Maintained

This is an appeal to the women of Canada. There is one vital part of our war effort which depends on you.

Your government has placed a “ceiling” on retail prices. You are the buyers of four out of every five dollars worth of all the goods sold in this country. Your whole-hearted help is needed in this price control plan. If every woman does her part, it cannot fail.

Its success will be a big step on the road to victory. Its failure would be a serious blow to our war effort. You can tip the balance towards success.

Will you, then, undertake to make the successful control of commodity prices an established fact? We know you will. And we know that when you undertake this task it is as good as done.

This is the work you are asked to do

1. Make a list of commodities

We want you to sit down today and make a list of the things you buy from week to week and from month to month. Write down food and clothing items in particular, because these account for the biggest share of your expenditures. But we want you to list those articles you buy at the drug store, hardware store, and other stores, too.

2. Make notes about quality

Now go over your list again and mark down the necessary details about quality, type, grade and size. Then when making future purchases you will be able to compare values as well as prices.

3. Write down prices

After each item we want you to write down, if you can, the highest price charged at your store during the period September 15 to October 11, 1941. If you cannot remember the prices charged during that period, fill in your list with today's prices. Our survey shows that retailers, with few exceptions, are keeping prices well within the “ceiling” levels. As exceptions are being discovered they are being quickly brought into line.

4. Keep this list—use it when you buy!

Make up this price list neatly and accurately. You will not be able to get all the items at once. Keep adding to your list from day to day. Make it your permanent check list—your personal safeguard against any further rise in prices.

Prices May be Different in Different Stores

There has always been a difference in prices in different stores—even stores in the same locality. This may depend on the kind of service the store gives, or the way it operates. Some stores, for instance, have delivery service, give credit, or provide other extra services.

Under the new Price Ceiling Order there will still be differences in prices at different stores. The new price regulations will not do away with competition. The highest prices in any particular store must not be higher than the highest prices in force in that store during the period September 15 to October 11. They may be a little lower or a little higher than the prices in other stores.

The prices you will mark down will be the highest prices charged at the store where you shop.

A Few Points to Remember

1. The ceiling price is not necessarily the price you paid. It is the highest price at which the store sold the particular item between September 15 and October 11.

2. A merchant may reduce his prices for sales or other reasons—he may also raise them provided they do not go above the ceiling price.

3. Variations in seasonal prices on fresh fruits and vegetables are permitted. Rulings on seasonal markets will be announced from time to time by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in newspapers and over the radio.

4. Fill out your price list without bothering your merchant. In many cases he is making a financial sacrifice to sell under the price ceiling. The war has left him short-staffed and the Christmas rush is on.

Items most frequently bought

This is not intended as a complete list. It is simply offered as a guide. Add to it the other items you buy or expect to buy.

Item	Description* (Size, Quality, etc.)	Store	Price	Item	Description (Size, Quality, etc.)	Store	Price

Why you must do your part

To ensure the success of this price control plan, every woman in Canada should make a list. Retailers are showing a splendid spirit of co-operation. The great majority of them are determined to make this plan work, but if you do not co-operate the whole plan might fail—prices might start to skyrocket. So keep your list handy. Check the prices you pay against it.

If a price seems higher than the ceiling, ask your merchant about it. If further information is necessary, report the full details in writing. Address your letter to the Prices and Supply Representative, Wartime Prices and Trade Board at any of the following: Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, North Bay, London, Toronto, Rockville, Montreal, Quebec City, Saint John, Halifax, Charlottetown.

CANADA BEGINS TO GROW CRANBERRIES

Canada's first cranberry plantation at Lemieux, Quebec, is expected to yield its first crop in 1943. Representing an investment of $100,000, the undertaking was begun in the spring of 1938 by Edgar Laroque. Canada imports $500,000 worth of cranberries annually from the United States, but by 1950 it is expected that a large percentage of Canada's present consumption will be produced domestic cultivation.

The first requirements for the cultivation of cranberries is water and Mr. Laroque has built channels from nearby Lake Soulard and can flood his land in two hours.

other nation in history has been able to do. These seventy million people, living in an area only one-twentieth the size of the area of the United States and only one-sixth of that area being arable, may have to achieve their dream of an empire by seizing and controlling the resources of their neighbours on the mainland and southeastern islands. She could get iron and coking coal in China; she could obtain raw materials from India and Australia; she could use the antimony, tungsten, and tin of Malaysia; she could capitalize on the petroleum, rubber, and vegetable oils of the Dutch East Indies; she could use the rice of Indo-China.

However, in order to achieve these objectives, Japan must be able to conquer and control the mainland and the great sea routes in the Pacific and Indian Oceans. Then, and then only, can her dream of an empire become true. But there are four big obstacles in her path of aggression, namely, China, Russia, United States, and the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It is common knowledge that the war in China is stalemated. If the Japanese rulers would read their history books with any degree of avidity, they would know that Japan may win major battles again and again for years, and years, but she will get nowhere. She cannot drain the bottomless well of Chinese manpower. She has tried it before in history and she failed each time. Indeed, Japanese aggression in China was started as far back as 1592 by the only peasant who ever rose to rule this nation, Hideyoshi Toyotomi, and when this leader died, he advised Japan to abandon all attempts to conquer China.

Japan can wage an all out war, but not for long.
